To be prepared for the rigor of the LLM curriculum, students must have a high level of English proficiency in reading, writing, speaking, and listening. Unless an exemption applies, all applicants must submit an official, valid TOEFL or IELTS score.

Although we review all complete applications, we look for an overall score of at least 100 on the TOEFL or 7.0 on the IELTS. Most admitted students have higher overall scores.

We advise applicants with scores below 100 on the TOEFL or 7.0 on the IELTS to consider submitting a supplemental essay that discusses their English language abilities.

Applicants should take the TOEFL or IELTS in person, if the option is available. However, for situations where taking a test in person is impossible due to the COVID-19 pandemic, we will accept TOEFL iBT Home Edition and IELTS Indicator scores.

We do not accept TOEFL MyBest scores.

TOEFL and IELTS scores are valid for two years, and we accept scores that are within two years of our application opening. During the 2022-23 admissions season, applicants should submit an English proficiency test score from September 1, 2020 or later.

Completing Your Application

We consider an application to be on time if we receive all the required components of a candidate's application by January 15. We do not submit an application for review until we confirm that we have received all of the required materials.

Applications that are complete after the January 15 deadline are evaluated on a space available basis and may be at a disadvantage in our review process.

We send admissions decisions by email, so please add law.grad.admissions@umich.edu to your contact list.

For applications that are complete by our deadline, we begin releasing our first admissions decisions in February, and we typically finish making our initial decisions by the end of March.
