Frequent Challenges in International Programs

Pre-arrival procedures

Managing multiple legal profiles and requirements creates a high administrative workload for university teams, increasing complexity and the risk of inefficiencies.

Often involve a risk of delays and miscommunication, while students require ongoing guidance, reassurance, and follow-up.

Poor experience abroad

Without a follow-up service or previously established processes, operational issues may arise during the stay, negatively impacting the student experience.

May reduce enrollment rates in future semesters due to negative feedback

Limited remote issue resolution

Not having a university representative at the destination often results in limited visibility for coordinators when incidents occur

Those receiving the issue often find it difficult to manage and resolve, especially remotely
